次の英文は、ある中学校のALTであるスミス先生(Mr.Smith)が、授業中に話している 場面のものです。これを読んで、問いに答えなさい。

Today, I'll tell you about the two things I've learned about school life in Japan.

В

First, you spend most of your time in the same classroom. You usually study here with your classmates, and teachers come here to teach you. In my country, America, teachers usually have their own classrooms, and students go to different classrooms to study. Students study with different classmates because *timetables are different among the students. Also, in Japan, you often use classrooms after school. A few days ago, I saw some students in a classroom after school. They were doing their homework together. I was surprised when I saw this. In America, we don't use the classroom after school like this.

Second, you clean your own classroom. I also see some teachers who clean with the students. At first, I didn't understand why students and teachers clean the school. In America, schools usually have cleaning *staff, so students don't clean the classroom. Actually, cleaning schools is seen as a job in America. But, we often hear "When in Rome, do as the Romans do," so I started cleaning, too, like teachers here. Now, I feel it's good for us to clean the classrooms because we'll try to keep them *neat and clean.

Well, it was interesting to learn that the classroom is a very important part of school life in Japan. I hope you'll also be interested in the school life of other countries. You may learn something important about the school life of each country.

Why was Mr. Smith surprised after school a few days ago?

次の英文は、佐藤先生(Mr. Sato)の英語の授業で、ディベート(debate)を行う準備として、高 校生の健太(Kenta)と理子(Riko)が意見を述べている場面のものです。これを読んで、問いに 答えなさい。

Mr. Sato :	You've thought about today's topic as homework, right? First, I want to hear your own ideas as a *warm-up. Kenta, do you want to live in the city or in the *countryside in the future?
Kenta :	I want to live in the countryside, especially near the sea, because I like fishing.
Mr. Sato :	How about you, Riko?
Riko :	I don't think I can make my dream come true in the countryside. I want to work at a TV company in Tokyo. That's my dream.
Mr. Sato :	I see. I understand you have different ideas. Next, we'll think about the *case for *elderly people. Which is better for elderly people, living in the city or in the countryside? You've already thought of some reasons for both *sides. Now, Kenta, if living in the city is better, what's your reason?
Kenta :	Well, I think it's easier for elderly people to live in the city. There are more stores and hospitals in the city than in the countryside, so they can go shopping and go to the doctor more easily.
Mr. Sato :	Good. You mean, right? Do you have anything else to tell us?
Kenta :	Yes. Research shows that most of the doctors in Japan work in the city. *On the other hand, in some areas, especially in the countryside, there aren't enough doctors. I worry about this.
Mr. Sato :	Good point! Next, Riko, if living in the countryside is better, what's your reason?
Riko :	I think elderly people can enjoy a quiet life without *stress. Cities are full of *noise, and buses and trains are usually *crowded. People in cities always look busy. I also think, in the countryside, *connections with the local people keep them *active, and they can feel safe because they know each other well.
Mr. Sato : Riko :	I see. You mean living in the countryside is good for their *mental health, right? Yes. Well, according to research, there are many people who move to the countryside from the city because of various reasons. For example, many elderly people say that they want to live in a quiet place that has a lot of nature. I think they feel a lot of stress in the city.
Mr. Sato :	Very good, Riko! Both Kenta and Riko talked about elderly people's health as a reason. I'm sure both of your ideas make us think about a better place for elderly people. In the next lesson, we're going to have a debate about this topic, so you need to *argue against each other's ideas. So, as practice, I want you to think of how to argue against Kenta's idea and Riko's idea. Now, everyone, let's make a group and start sharing your ideas!

I enjoy learning Japanese. The expression I often use is "sumimasen." When I came to Japan last year, I knew it means "I'm sorry." But, I didn't understand why people say "sumimasen" many times. Now I know it also means "Excuse me" and "Thank you." I think this is a very useful expression. In English, we also have such useful expressions. For example, we say, "I'm fine." This expression is used in various scenes. If someone asks, "Are you OK?," we often say, "I'm fine." We use this when we want to say "Yes." Also, at a convenience store, we're asked, "Do you need a bag?" We can use "I'm fine" if we don't need a bag. In this way, we can use this expression when we want to say "Yes" and also when we want to say "No." Learning languages is interesting, right? I want you to learn useful English expressions and try to use them. I hope studying English will be more interesting for you!

(英文を繰り返す)

続いて,問4です。次に読まれる英文は,英語の先生が生徒に指示をしている場面のものです。あ なたが生徒になったつもりで,問題用紙に示された条件にしたがって,スピーチを完成させなさい。 このあと10秒取りますので,問題用紙のスピーチと条件に目を通しなさい。

In the next lesson, you'll make a short speech. The topic is, "Which season is the best to visit your hometown?" If you're asked about it by tourists from other countries, how will you answer? In your speech, I want you to tell us which season is the best and why you chose the season. Then, please tell us more information about the reason.

Your speech is not about your favorite season. You should think about the foreign tourists who would like to visit your hometown. Also, your speech should be understood by people who don't speak Japanese.

Well, I can't wait for our next lesson! Good luck!

(英文を繰り返す)

これで,英語の聞き取りテストを終わります。 引き続き,問題用紙の5ページからの問題を解答しなさい。
